

Mokena Plugging Strong For Concrete

Road Organization Now Has Over 250 Members; Big Meeting Saturday

The Mokena Development and Road Improvement Association organized three weeks ago has shown a most remarkable growth, now having an enrolled membership of over 250. The third meeting of the organization was held at the Mokena public school auditorium Monday night of this week and it proved to be one of the most interesting yet held. The large number of members in attendance were enthusiastic and determined. Important information was brought out in an address by the chairman. Short addresses, pertinent and also timely suggestions were given by several and resolutions were also drawn up and acted upon after due deliberation and comment looking forward to immediate action on important measures to be taken.

Peter Michelsen who is laying out a new subdivision at the south end of the Mokena limits and who was largely instrumental in getting the present organization started and himself an ardent hard road booster, gave an address and read several letters he had received in reply to letters he had written to various officials seeking their aid in getting a hard road for Mokena. Mr. Michelsen read a letter from Gov. Len Small in which the latter stated that he found it necessary to ask all road committees to meet him in Springfield so that members of the Illinois Highway Division might be present at the hearings. He said he had requested Hon. C. R. Miller, Director of Public Works and Buildings to notify Mr. Michelsen just when a hearing may be had.

Mr. Miller in turn wrote Mr. Michelsen that when the state is ready to hold a hearing on Second Bond Issue Route No. 51, he would be advised of the date so the local committee can present their views as to location at that public hearing. Mr. Miller further said that while they are always glad to meet their friends on the subject of good roads there can nothing be gained at this time by meeting a committee as it will be better to meet this committee at a public hearing.

Mr. Michelsen also read a letter from Representative Hon. Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove in which she said she will be glad to assist in the plans of the local organization and that she will report as soon as she gets some information on the matter.

Mr. Michelsen says he will not leave a stone unturned to get the Mokena highway project thru.

At Monday night's meeting the "Forward Mokena" spirit was harmoniously evident from opening to closing.

There will be another meeting at the Mokena public school Saturday evening, January 29th at 8 o'clock. This combining of individual endeavor with united concerted community support means much for Mokena in her endeavor to gain that legitimate share of public improvement to which she is justly entitled.

Worth May Name Zoning Committee

At a recent meeting of the city council of Worth the zoning question was again brought up. Drawing up a satisfactory ordinance appears to be rather difficult, and the suggestion of some Fellowship Club members who were present, it was decided to appoint a planning commission. Their plan will be submitted to the board later and then the work can proceed.

It was decided to put a light at the south end of Worth Street.

Much Activity In Dumas Subdivision at Worth

Work in the Dumas subdivision at Worth goes merrily on. Bus loads have been coming out, and lots are being sold from 111th St. to the canal. An attractive office building has been erected, and light posts are being put in all along Harlem Avenue. Worth in this particular section has every appearance of a live town.

New City Hall Being Discussed

An issue which confronts Worth at the present time and bears careful consideration is the erection of a village hall. It is well that we face the facts bearing on this important issue because over $8,000 of the village money is involved as well as the future of the community development. Therefore we feel there should be no hurry that might bring mistakes.

Mr. Albers, City planner of the Regional Planning Commission advises that we are not ready to build a village hall as yet. He gives the following reasons, which seem to be quite sound.

1.—The village is in process of change right now. We do not know what our needs will be in a year or so. We might outgrow our present proposed building in three or four years, which would mean another new building at that time. In other words we would have just thrown away our $8,000. In a year's time we will know what to expect in our community development and can determine then the type of building that will meet our future needs.

2.—Careful study should be made as to its location. The needs of our village three or four years from now should be taken into consideration. There should be room for other necessary municipal buildings such as water works and other things. It is cheaper and more efficient to have public buildings grouped together.

3.—There is still time for this consideration as no bonds have been issued. It seems well to consider the views of this man who is an authority on city development.

Some thought and consideration on this matter may save us much money and future condemnation. Let us not act hastily on a matter that can bear investigation as this can.

Slips on Icy Walk; Seriously Hurt

As John Scheer of Frankfort was walking home from the post office Monday evening about 5:30 he slipped on an icy walk between the Herschbach store and Sipple Sisters place and in falling struck the back of his head on the concrete walk. He suffered injuries to his head and back and was unable to stand up when helped on his feet by friends. He has been confined to bed since.

Breaks Out of Jail At Tinley Park

When a copper locks a man in a cell and in addition locks the cell house door how can the prisoner unlock the door of his cell and get out? This is something Chief of Police Fred Schmediknecht of Tinley Park would like have someone explain to him. Last Wednesday evening about 11 o'clock he found a young man loafing in the Rock Island depot at Tinley Park and gave him a night lodging in the house-gow. Officer Schmediknecht locked the door of his guest's cell with a Yale lock and made sure that the lock had snapped. Next he locked the big outside door of the jail and went home.

Next morning when he came to let his lodger out he was surprised to find splinters of wood lying in front of the jail door. When he tried the door he found it open. Upon entering he was astounded to find his erstwhile lodger had left. The cell door was securely locked as when the officer had left it the night before. On the cell he found a note reading: "Good bye I hope you catch hell for this." The guest upon getting out of his cell got in to the pump house and secured a screw driver and a hammer. He took the knobs off the door and then chipped the wood around the lock away until he got the lock out. Officer Schmediknecht had not searched the man when he locked him up. It is thought he had a skeleton key with him with which he unlocked the cell lock.

Rob Wm. Funk Residence

The residence of Wm. Funk at Tinley Park was burglarized Sunday night when the robber gained entrance thru a cellar window. A hand bag containing $6 in cash beside some papers was taken and was later found under a bridge in the north end of town but the money had been taken out. The papers were recovered.

Other Tinley News

The residents of 167th st. are certainly appreciative of the action the Village Board took in opening the roadway owing to the heavy drifts. Mrs. Ed. Moie was unable to get the children to school. In fact every body on the road was handicapped in some way. The street is in the township and it does seem fair that it be given due consideration.

Mrs. Clements' bunco party was well attended all had a good time. The Gift Shop is showing Novelty Valentines from 1 to 10cents each. Hand embroidered linen towels 50 cents to $1.00. Hand decorated perch pillows in blue and green 50 cents to $1.50—Adv.

Elmer Keuch is due the honor of the prompt arrest of F. J. Hilgen-dorf who forged the name of Jno. Poorman. His case was tried in Blue Island where he was bound over to the Grand Jury.

The Girls of the Triangle Club who formed the basket ball team are doing some strenuous practicing as there is a contest to take place between the Lutheran church girls organization of Blue Island on Feb. 4. Those on the team are: Clara Gessel, Alice Hartman, Agnes Bruggeman, Loraine Funk, Cordelia Hartman, Erika Boyer and Adeline Glogwartz.

Some one broke into the residence of Wm. Funk on Sunday evening ransacking the place and taking some money.

Radio Cabinet covers in oriental embroideries $2. Gift Shop—Adv. Ernest Stelter, Herman Siemson and families will enjoy a sleighing party "with bells" on Tuesday evening after the ride they will go to Ben Sippel's home for more fun and something to eat and drink.

The children of the school were treated to a sleigh ride under the supervision of Mr. Bert Fulton and Mr. Siekman. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lucht in the school building.

Its real tempting to go bobbing when the moon is high and the snow deep and glittering the young folks of Tinley were having a high old time last Wednesday evening. Their laughter echoed down Main street as the cars and sleds flew by.

It proved unfortunate for Herbert Hopman who broke his knee cap when he collided with a car that was parked near the garage. He is in the Harvey hospital but will soon be up and around we hope.

It is dangerous pastime to tow behind an auto running at high speed. Mrs. Jane Keuch has been sick since the first of the year. A severe cold. Mrs. Catherine Zimmerman of Chicago has been visiting Mrs. Keuch for a week or so.

Mr. Dell Corder who is convalescing from a siege of sickness, visited at the home of his sister in Maywood a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fiel are very happy over the arrival of a son at their home.

We are pleased to state, another of our able singers, Mrs. Sarah Reuter, has become one of the members of the Appollo Club of Chicago of which another young lady who deserves honorable mention in the person of Miss Miess.

Mr. Leonard Wilson has returned from Los Angeles California.

Much excitement and court proceedings are in progress (or about to be) over the tax situation in our town. Hasn't Oak Lawn stood enough notoriety in the last year? Is it not time for the tax payers ready and willing to see what it is all about. Is this a one man town? Should the hundreds of untaxable dogs run wild and the poor upright citizen man made to suffer financially when things could be handled better than the present office holders are doing. We have some of the most able men now on our board and yet they are unable to cope with the situation. Why not co-operate and vote together so we can get somewhere on these prospects.

Mrs. Irwin Morrie of Portage Park is visiting the family of Peter Baos.

Mrs. Milton G. Casil and daughter Mary Ailes of Louisville, Ky., visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ryan this week.

Wolf Hunters Stranded In Mokena

Here is a real wolf story. Lack of gasoline is the only reason that gave this story away for the wolf hunters were only on a wild goose chase.

Last Sunday several wolf hunters from south of Morris heard there were hungry wolves around New Lenox and Mokena. They hired a taxi and drove out. They brought a little nanny goat with them as a sort of decoy for Mr. Wolf. They first tried their luck at Gougar's west of New Lenox. Not getting a sign of a wolf there they came up the Lincoln highway to the Owen farm southwest of Mokena and not being successful in their second attempt to get on the trail of elusive Mr. Wolf they went still further, but with the same result. About mid-night they reached Mokena and to their consternation found the gas supply of the taxi had given out. As no oil station was open at that hour of the night they found themselves stranded in Mokena. As a last resort to seek shelter from a biting cold they went to the local Rock Island depot and finding the waiting room open and a fire they remained here until morning. The taxi driver had become disgruntled however and refused to take the 8 wolf hunters home so they had to telephone to Morris for another taxi. It is the belief that these hunters must have got confused with the story about the wolf hunt in the forest preserves around Palos Park and associated this story with the wrong territory. They said they had shot several wolves along the DuPage river the past week.

Oldest Worth Resident Dies

Mrs. Elizabeth Kerr Bishop, 90 years old, a resident for more than half a century in the vicinity of Worth, died at her home there, Monday. Following services at the home and the Worth Community Church the body was interred at Mt. Greenwood cemetery, Jan. 19.

Mrs. Bishop, born in Roscoe, Ill., lived for nearly sixty years near the place of her death. She was the community's oldest resident and could vividly recall the incidents attendant to the Civil war and further back. Old age was given as the cause of death.

Mrs. Bishop was the widow of Edward Bishop. Surviving her are three sons and three daughters. A son, Carl B. Bishop, is proprietor of the general store in Worth.

Orchard Information

CONTROL INSECTS WHILE DORMANT

Many of the injurious insect pests are most effectively controlled by spraying during the dormant season. At this time of the year materials can be safely used that would be injurious to the leaves of trees during the growing season, claims G. M. List, deputy state entomologist, Colorado Agricultural college.

"Among the insects in Colorado that are effectively controlled by such applications are a number of scale insects and the fruit tree leaf-roller. The most injurious scale insects are the San Jose, European elm, oyster shell, cottony maple, Putnam, and Cottonwood scales. The oil sprays are proving to be the most effective for most of the dormant spraying work, although the lime and sulphur solutions are still used a great deal, especially on the San Jose scale.

"The oil sprays are usually spoken of as miscible and soluble oils and oil emulsions. These are all very similar. They are oils so treated that they will readily mix with water and be diluted. They can be applied at any time during the period when the leaves are off the trees, providing the temperature is above 60 degrees Fahrenheit. When a great deal of spraying is necessary, it is often advisable to do part of it during the nice weather of fall and early winter, but the majority of this work is done in the spring.

"It is not too early to make a survey of the orchard and shade trees and order the necessary supply of materials. While the oil emulsions can be prepared at home, it is usually advisable for the average person to secure his supply of the ready prepared oil sprays that are on the market."

Control Scale Insects by Using Winter Spray

During the past year the purple scale seems to have received a setback to such an extent that there is now not over 2 per cent of live scale in evidence in any orchard. As a result of this condition, the orchardist may neglect to watch his Satsuma orchard for purple scale, thinking that the setback of last winter was sufficient to carry him through the present year. If there was 1 or 2 per cent of live scale during the month of June, there may be a heavy infestation before the harvest time comes, and considerable injury to the fruit may result during the month of September and early October. Therefore, the orchardist should keep his orchard under close observation, and if purple or long scale is present, he should lose no time in spraying with oil emulsion in order to protect his fruit from injury from this pest and also to keep the trees clean and healthy.

Winter Spray With Lime-Sulphur Is Now Favored

Winter spraying with lime-sulphur is a safeguard against San Jose scale, fungus diseases, and many bark hibernating insects. The cost and trouble of applying this spray is not great and it can be done when other work does not press. San Jose scale is certain death to trees if not checked, and while it spreads slowly from tree to tree, it spreads over a tree very rapidly. In the mite stage it moves about, and birds and strong winds distribute the mites, which soon form fast-spreading colonies, and the rate of increase is marvelous. But for the fact that the adult scale insects are stationary, and the babies move about for only a few days, orchards would become quickly and heavily infested. Scientists tell us that the progeny of one female will exceed 3,000,000 in one summer.

Horticultural Facts

Get the borers out of the peach trees.

The most satisfactory way of dealing with mice is to poison them. Then they are sure to stop depredations.

Prune the fruit trees after they have shed their leaves, while the weather is good and the farm work is slack.

Buckwheat is a mighty fine non-legume crop for orchard use. No crop leaves the soil in prettier condition to cultivate.

Red raspberries, currants and gooseberries are the hardiest of the bush fruits.

Orchard grass is a very desirable grass to grow where the ground is more or less shaded, because it thrives well in shady places.

Orchard grass is likely to grow in bunches and not make a solid sod so it needs something else to help cover the ground.

Strawberry fields must be covered with a straw mulch to a depth of four to five inches and covered before heavy frosts begin. If loss of plants from cold is to be avoided.

Lesson for January 30

THE CHRISTIAN OVERCOMING TEMPTATION

LESSON TEXT—Luke 4:1-13; I Cor. 10:12, 13.

GOLDEN TEXT—In that He Himself hath suffered being tempted, He is able to succor them that are tempted.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Obeying God Always.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Christ Helps the Tempted.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Overcome Temptation.

Christ's temptation was Messianic. No one has ever been tempted just like He was—led into the wilderness by the Holy Spirit to be tempted of the devil (Matt. 4:11). While we are not tempted as He was, the devil uses the same methods on us. This temptation was not:

1. A preparation for His work, but rather its first conflict. In His baptism we have the symbolic act of the dedication of Himself to the work of redemption through the cross—the making full a righteousness.

2. It was not to see if Christ would stand fast, nor to see if He would fall under the most crucial test. He could not have failed.

3. It was to show Christ as an object upon which we may rest our faith with unshaken confidence. He came as the second man, the head of the new race. The temptation therefore was a demonstration of the inseparableness of the divine and human natures in the incarnation.

1. The Temptation of Christ (Luke 4:1-13).

1. The place (v. 1).

The wilderness of Judea. The first man, Adam, was tempted in a garden with the most pleasant surroundings. The second man, Jesus Christ, was tempted in a barren wilderness surrounded by wild beasts (Mark 1:13).

2. The method (vv. 2-12).

Christ as the world's Redeemer sustained a three-fold relationship—Son of Man, the Messiah and Son of God, therefore Satan made each one a ground of attack.

(1) As Son of Man (vv. 2-4).

Satan made his first assault upon Him as a man by appealing to the instinct of hunger. Satan urged Him to use His divine power and convert a stone into bread. Hunger is natural and sinless. Real human life experiences hunger. The temptation was in satisfying a right hunger in a wrong way. To have yielded in this case though His hunger was desperate, would have been to renounce the human limitations which He had taken for our sins. In the incarnation He became identified with humanity, so He chose to abide in fellowship with man.

(2) As Messiah (vv. 5-8).

Here the temptation was to grasp His rightful dominions by false means. The devil offered to surrender unto Him the world if He would adopt his methods—worship him. The force of this temptation was in the fact that the kingdoms of the world are Christ's by God's covenant with Him. God's method by which Jesus was to possess the world was the sacrificial death on the cross.

(3) As Son of God (vv. 9-12).

Here Satan tries to induce Christ to presume upon God's care. He quotes a Messianic Psalm to induce Him to so act. To do the spectacular thing in order to get notice is to fall into Satan's temptation. For Jesus to have placed Himself in danger in order to get God's special help in delivering Him would have been to sin.

(4) Christ's defense (vv. 4, 8, 12).

It was the Word of God. He met and repulsed the enemy with "It is written." Our defense is God's Word.

(5) The issue (v. 13).

Satan was vanquished.

11. The Temptation of Believers (I Cor. 10:12, 13).

1. Temptation is to be expected (v. 12).

From the appearance of Satan in the Garden of Eden on down through the ages men and women have been assailed by the tempter. These facts are God's admonitions unto us upon whom the ends of the world are come. Caution is always necessary. Over-weening self-confidence is most perilous to those who rest in the security of their divine election while neglecting a life of holiness.

2. Divine help available (v. 13).

All temptations which come to us are those which are common to the race. No one should surmise that his temptation is peculiar. God is faithful and will not allow the temptation to go beyond the ability of the one tempted. He will provide a way of escape.

Drink Water If Kidneys Bother

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Pains or Bladder is Irritated

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

Mexican Indians Are Fleet of Foot

Tarahumares Excel Other Aborigines in Covering Long Distances.

Minaca, State of Chihuahua, Mex.—It has long been a well-known fact to Americans of this part of Mexico that the male members of the Tarahumare Indian tribe excel all other aborigines in fleet-footedness and endurance. The record made by Leoncio San Miguel, a Tarahumare runner, in covering the distance between Pachuca and Mexico City, 100 kilometers, equivalent to 62 miles, in 9 hours and 37 minutes, which seems to have created a stir in the sporting world recently, has been excelled times without number in the ordinary run of life of these lowly Indians upon their native heath in the rough region west of here.

No white person is better qualified to speak authoritatively about the Tarahumare Indians than Charles T. Wallace, an Englishman, who, for nearly forty years, has made his home in the little Tarahumare village of Guazapares. Don Carlos, as Wallace is called, has been operating a one-man mine and a ranch of a few thousand acres bordering the Indian country, and purely for human companionship he asked and received permission of the head men of the tribe to make his home among them.

Indians' Legal Adviser.

On many occasions he has represented the Tarahumares in matters that came before both the state and federal governments. He is highly respected by the Indians, and he has been given an insight into many of their tribal customs and traditions. Don Carlos was at Minaca to lay in a supply of provisions for his own use during the winter, which is severe in these altitudes, when the published report reached here of the long-distance running record made by Leoncio.

"To a person who is not familiar with the running feats of the Tarahumares, Leoncio's record doubtless stands out as a notable performance," Don Carlos said. "When he comes back to his people, he will laugh about it and his friends will laugh with him. Why, do you know that it is not at all an unusual thing, and certainly it was almost a weekly event in the days before the railroad was built as far west as Minaca from Chihuahua, for Tarahumare runners to be sent with messages from Guazapares to the city of Chihuahua, a distance of 592 miles, there and back, by road they had to travel, and that they made and still make the round trip in five days, including the time off for eating and sleeping.

Pays Tax on Time.

"On one particular occasion when I wanted to get a tax payment to the mining office in Chihuahua before the date of delinquency arrived, I employed a young Indian to take the money and letter there and he made the one-way trip in less than two days and was back in Guazapares before the end of the fourth day. The boy's name was Serrance, and for beauty of body and powers of endurance I don't believe he ever had an equal. He is still living—an honored member of the tribe. He is now past forty years old, and his fast running days are over, although he can still hold his own against many men much younger than he is.

"It may be hard for an outsider to believe the statement, but it is a well-established fact that it is not considered any remarkable feat for Tarahumares to run 175 miles to 200 miles without stopping. Is it any wonder that the record made by Leoncio in covering the distance of 62 miles without stopping will not create any stir among his own people?"

Capture Wild Horses.

"When I first located at Guazapares, there were thousands of wild horses in the foothills of the Sierra Madre and it was a common practice for Mexican ranch owners of that region when they wanted to collect a drove of the animals for their own uses or for market to send a few Tarahumare Indian runners to the grazing ground of the wild horses to round them up and drive them to the ranches. The Tarahumares could run as fast or faster than the fleet-footed horses and they invariably brought in the drove when assigned to the task. The soles of the feet of the Indians are so thick and hard that the roughest sort of traveling has no effect on them.

"The Tarahumares do all their deer hunting on foot. When they sight a deer they run the animal down, even if it takes a day or two days to accomplish its exhaustion. The men are great hunters and are expert with bows and arrows, although they get the keenest enjoyment in running their game to earth instead of shooting it.

Women Also Fleet of Foot.

"The women also are swift runners and running matches between young women and young men are held at frequent intervals, especially in the fall, in the light of the bright October moon. These races sometimes extend over a period of three or four days and are attended by several thousand Indians. The total number of Tarahumares is about 35,000 and, despite the hard life they lead, they are the strongest and most vigorous people I have ever known.

"I have witnessed many of their big racing events and the spectacle is worth going many miles to see. That is especially true at night, when the pine knots are lighted to mark the path of the runners and the flare of campfires upon the mountain sides lends a weirdness to the scene that is somewhat awesome. Besides the straight-away race, there are races which are handicapped in certain ways. One favorite handicap is for the runner to kick a ball along the path as he runs, and the women keep the ball moving by striking it with sticks.

Live on Wild Game.

"Notwithstanding the proved physical powers of the Tarahumares, they do little in the way of real work. Some farming—just enough to raise corn and beans for their own use—is carried on, but most of their living comes from the wild game that they kill. These Indians are one of the few native tribes that have not been Mexicanized. Not many of them speak Spanish and most of them resent the intrusion of aliens. I am glad to say I was made a notable exception to that rule.

"They are honest, good-natured, fun-loving folk. The men do not wear beards, because they believe the devil has a beard. To keep their faces beardless, the men pluck out the hairs when they first begin to appear and they keep this up all through life.

"I witnessed an incident at Guazapares not long ago which convinced me that the bobbed-hair style will never be adopted by the Tarahumare young women. It was while on a trade pilgrimage to Chihuahua that a young girl of the tribe saw that bobbed hair was the fashion. She induced a friend to clip her hair.

"When she got back home and her parents saw her shorn locks, they declared she was in disgrace. The head men of the tribe held a conference and were about to sentence her to a life of banishment in the mountains, which meant that she would have to take shelter with some poor Mexican family or die of starvation.

"It happened, however, that one of the Indians insisted that I be made a party to the conference, so I was sent for. I heard the case and then I suggested that they should not carry out the severe sentence which they had proposed, but that they permit the girl to remain in her parents' home until her tresses had grown to normal length, when she would have atoned for the disgrace she had brought upon herself and the tribe. This was done.

"One of the remarkable beliefs of the Tarahumares is that stones and all other inanimate objects really possess life and that they suffer joy and pain just the same as human beings. By reason of this belief they have great reverence for stones, plants and trees. They worship a species of cactus which lives several months after it has been pulled from the ground. The root of this cactus contains a juice which the Indians drink and which has a powerful narcotic effect.

Never Look in Mirror.

"No Tarahumare maiden or male member of the tribe has ever looked voluntarily into a mirror or any other reflector that might show to them their features. It is one of the solid superstitions of these Indians that to catch even a fleeting glimpse of their reflected features, even in a pool of water, is bad luck. Notwithstanding the existence of this taboo, the Tarahumare young women are possessed of more than ordinary maidenly vanity. They primp and dress to attract the attention of the young men, and yet they never have any idea of what their personal appearance is like.

"The women do the courting, and it is one of the most amusing processes toward marriage that perhaps exists anywhere in the world. Both young men and women are extremely bashful. When a girl sets her heart on a certain youth for her husband she has a terrible hard time mustering up courage to 'pop the question.' Sometimes it takes months of patient and amusing tactics before she gets the young man to understand that she is in love with him. When the eventual question is finally asked and she is accepted, that is all there is to it. There is no marriage ceremony.

Medicine Man Important.

"The Tarahumares live in the heart of the greatest country of wild game to be found anywhere outside of Africa, I truly believe. Deer, bears, antelopes, wild turkeys and various other kinds of game abound. The needs of the Indians are few. They wear little if any clothing and their homes are usually made of reeds and limbs of trees.

"In each village is a medicine man, who plays no small part in the daily affairs of his people, especially in times of sickness or trouble. The medicine man is supposed to possess an overabundant supply of what we would call ideas; at any rate, he usually keeps a cloth tightly wound around his head to 'keep his mind from escaping.'

Graduates Immigrate.

The Italian impulse to emigration extends to the workmen and peasants, but also, according to recent advices from Rio de Janeiro, to the intellectuals. Complaint is made that every ship arriving from Italy brings many Italian university graduates fondly hoping to make their way in the new world by their wits.

Beautiful Dolls Used as

Lure to Sell Delicacies

Paris.—The Alsatian restaurants of Paris have hit upon a new way to sell their pate de foie gras, the food that made Strasbourg famous.

Cans of pate, all ready to be taken home, are placed beneath the voluminous skirts of dolls dressed in the provincial costume, with big Alsatian bows adorning their hair. A wife, sweetheart or daughter, taken into the restaurant for a good dinner, is almost sure to be attracted to the dolls, placed on tables in the center of the room. When her escort yields to her whim and decides to buy the doll, he has to buy the pate de foie gras that goes with it—and there are few delicacies in the world that cost so much.

Man 77 Years Old Restored to Good Health

Recovers From Stomach Trouble, Dizziness, and Other Ailments. Feels 30 Years Younger. Thanks Tanlac

If good health seems slipping from you; if indigestion, nervousness, and ailments caused by a run-down condition torture you, benefit from the remarkable experience of J. A. Groff, retired restaurant owner of East Du-buque, Ill., who suffered for many years only to regain health and strength.

Sitting in his comfortable home Mr. Groff recently said: "My condition was unbearable. Nervousness caused splitting headaches and made sleep impossible. I was always tired and worn-out. My hands shook like a leaf. I had no appetite for food. And when I ate I suffered from indigestion."

"I sought relief, trying this and that without success. Then Tanlac came to the rescue. It has made me feel 30 years younger."

"I am feeling stronger and healthier. I eat everything without a thought of pain. Tanlac drove away dizziness caused by constipation, calmed my nerves. This great tonic saved me from long years of suffering, banished pain and built up my strength. Everyone should take it."

The wife plays the leading role on many a domestic stage.

Mr. Groff is only one of many Illinois men and women now enjoying the benefits of good health and vital strength, thanks to Tanlac, the safe, effective remedy made from roots, barks and herbs, according to the famous Tanlac formula.

SPITE FENCE SEPARATES THESE TWO TOWNS IN TEXAS OIL FIELD

Torn Down Several Times, Armed Guards Are Now on Duty to Protect It.

Stinnett, Texas.—Perhaps no more remarkable "spite" fence was ever built than that which separates the towns of Stinnett and East Stinnett. These two new and rapidly growing communities are in the heart of the Hutchinson county oil field of the Panhandle. The two towns adjoin and only a street separates them. The people of Stinnett for some unexplained reason fell out with the people of their neighboring town of East Stinnett and it was decided to sever all communications between the two places.

To prevent traffic from passing from one town to another a fence was built across the street leading from East Stinnett into Stinnett. At first it was only a makeshift of two-by-fours, but a careless truckman ran over it. Then it was built stronger and extended somewhat. Likewise it was torn down.

Then a real honest-to-goodness fence was put up. It consisted of railroad ties put in the ground, many barb wires strung along them, some two-by-twelves spiked to them and a big cable along on top. It was likewise extended out in the field in each direction, separating the two town-sites, but travel continued around it.

Several nights ago a squad of men arrived and while some patrolled with shotguns, others proceeded to lay the fence flat. It was rebuilt and extended the next day and also a shack was moved up to the west side of it and armed guards are stationed therein, with orders to stop molesters.

In the meantime, several by-plays have been going on in the way of painting signs on the fence and other stunts that add to the merriment.

First 24 Hours of Life Baby's Hardest Time

By MARIE K. JOHNSON

Undernourishment is one of the most common of the causes of infant mortality, according to a survey recently undertaken in Chicago. Statistics show that of 4,522 babies under one year of age that died in 12 months, 388 died in the first 24 hours.

Marie K. Johnson

Eight hundred and seventy-six died in the first six days, exclusive of the first 24 hours, and 1,798 died from the seventh day to the sixth month. Eight hundred and sixty died in the last six months of the year. The survey indicated that a surprisingly large number of infants are artificially fed, which condition, doctors agree, had a marked bearing on their undernourished conditions. Naturally, no one food may prove satisfactory in every case, although the survey showed that evaporated milk in many cases had proved an excellent substitute for mother's milk. This may be explained by reason of the fact that evaporated milk is simply pure, concentrated cow's milk from which 60 per cent of the water has been removed. It contains practically every element necessary for good health and is consequently an excellent builder of bone and tissue.

Although authorities on health recommend evaporated milk as a baby food, like other substitutes for the natural supply, it should not be considered as a food complete in itself. Addition of orange or tomato juice, barley water or lime water is important in providing adequate diet for the infant.

For babies, milk of dependable purity is essential. Market milk will not keep for any length of time and is also liable to contamination, especially in hot weather, while evaporated milk, hermetically sealed in sterilized containers, remains as fresh and pure as on the day it was canned.

Sterility in evaporated milk, authorities agree, is one of the most important points in its favor. In processing, evaporated milk is subjected to 240 degrees heat for a half hour, thereby removing all possibility of bacterial life being present in the milk. Heat is the only preservative for this type of milk and the heat has the further beneficial effect of making the curds of milk more flocculent and easier to digest.

Child's Health Maintained By Wholesome Diet

Modern educators are leaning more each year to the old Greek idea of rearing the citizens of the future. They are working on the principle of "a sound mind in a sound body."

Good health is built primarily on the foundation of right food. The sort of food the child has determines to a large extent the fitness of the man or woman.

Children have to be taught to like the foods that are good for them much in the same way that they have to be taught arithmetic and history. Boys and girls are not born with any particular desire for cereals or for bread. It's up to their parents to see that they learn the rudiments of a balanced diet and the reason for such a diet. Firmness and patience are often necessary in the teaching, but the job must be done.

Many mothers unconsciously put their children under health handicaps by allowing them to use their own discretion in the matter of eating candy, fruit, nuts and cookies. By so doing they set a precedent in the matter of other foods and make the teaching of good nutrition harder.

One or two articles are not enough to supply a child's needs for a meal. In order that there be normal development, there must be variety.

Fresh eggs, whole cereals, fruits in season and leafy vegetables should occupy an important part in the growing child's dietary. Then, too, a certain amount of concentrated food is necessary for children, because rapid growth whets their appetites to a razor edge, so that they crave more food than their systems can well dispose of. Evaporated milk, diluted with orange juice as a drink, or in custards or other baked foods, is especially beneficial for the growing child for the reason that it is concentrated to double the richness of ordinary cow's milk and is entirely sterile as well. The can of evaporated milk solves the problem of obtaining perfectly pure milk, as well as the problem of lack of refrigeration facilities, since this type of milk will keep indefinitely in the can.

EVEN big-city folks must have their "neighborhood stores"! Most of them would no more think of going down town to fight their way through the crowds in search of a roast for dinner than they would of walking to the factory to get a pair of shoes.

City women know that their neighborhood stores can supply them just what they want — and that, in most cases, the service is more alert and friendly.

The same thing is true of this "neighborhood". Our merchants—the men whose ads you read in this paper—are in position to furnish your home with the best and most popular brands of goods. Not only can they save you money, but they gladly relieve you of a lot of worry and loss of time.

Civilization Unjustly Blamed.

Decayed teeth have been found in a skull thousands of years old. Impacted wisdom teeth can be found in skulls taken from the shell mounds around San Francisco bay and exhibited in the ethnological museum of the Affiliated colleges. The theory that civilization causes such troubles is no sounder than the decayed molars.

Songs of Troubadours

There were several kinds of songs sung by the troubadours—the canzonet, or love song; serenade, or evening song; aubade, or morning song; servante in praise of patrons, roundelay, or song with refrain or chorus; dance song accompanying the round dance, and the pastourelle, treating of Arcadian love.

"MY SON IS A FOOL"

A certain New York millionaire was showing his home to a friend not long ago. The house was equipped with every modern convenience and luxury. "I have all these things," said the millionaire, "and yet I can enjoy none of them—for my son is a fool!"

Tragedies of this kind happen in many homes. Usually they come not because the boy is spoiled, but because he is poorly informed about life. He does not know toward what goal to direct his efforts.

To help boys and girls to choose their life work intelligently, a group of famous Americans are writing for The Youth's Companion this year a series of articles on the professions. Farming is discussed by L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange. Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House of Representatives, writes about politics. Equally eminent spokesmen have been found for the other professions.

Give an ambitious boy or girl a chance to read these articles, along with more than 300 gems of fiction every year. Now is the time to enter your subscription for the Hundred and First Year of the oldest, finest and cleanest young people's magazine in America. Subscribers will receive—

1. The Youth's Companion—52 weekly issues, and

2. The Hundredth Anniversary Souvenir Picture "A Yard of Youth" (sent on request.) All for only $2.

3. Or include McCall's Magazine the monthly authority on fashions. Both publications only $2.50.

OAK LAWN

Mrs. Evelyn Winthers Nyman of Chicago gave a shower at her home on Mrs. Florence Blankley Coulter Sat. afternoon. Many of Florence's friends from Oak Lawn were present. She received many very pretty gifts.

The Christian Endeavor Society went on a sleigh party Sunday. They ended up at Lucille Jensen's home.

Mrs. Max Studt gave a shower on Mrs. Gunther and Mrs. Wm. Schultz, Thurs. afternoon Jan. 20. Mr. Geo. Kurfess, one of the directors of the Oak Lawn Tr. and Savings' bank is getting ready to leave for California.

Frank Harnes Jr. is back on the job at Harnes's Service Station after a week of illness.

Joseph Haley is planning a trip to Florida.

There is an epidemic of measles in Oak Lawn. Most of the children in the third grade have them.

The Oak Lawn Trust and Savings Bank are having a stockholders meeting on Friday, Jan. 28th. Several matters of great importance are to be decided upon.

Mrs. Bertha Hopkins says that the Congregational Church Ladies Aid can meet at her home on Thursday Feb. 3rd, that is if the measles don't prevent.

Mrs. VenDenBergen is recovering from bronchitis.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH

The services at Trinity Lutheran Church for Sunday, January 30th, will be as follows—Sunday School will meet at 9:15. A preaching service, conducted in the German language, will begin at 10:00 o'clock. In the evening at 7:30 the pastor will lecture on the topic—"The Duty of the Church to the Community". Ladies Aid meets Thursday, Jan. 27 at the church.

Mr. C. I. Bain came from the South to stay in Oak Lawn a few days with his family.

Term of Opprobrium

The term Yankee, according to Bombaugh, is not Indian, but Dutch, and means to snarl and quarrel. It was applied by the burghers of New Amsterdam to the invaders from Connecticut.

ORLAND

Rev. Wm. Gorey has organized a children's sodality. The third Sunday of each month has been selected as Communion Sunday for this society. The initial attendance was very good taking into consideration the almost impassable roads.

Serving forty dollars worth of luncheon in a cold, cobwebbed barn at a public sale may not strike a lady as an especially interesting project but to a man, eating in such a place is "homelike" and the "lace curtains" only add zest to his keen outdoor appetite. The brave North Pole waitresses were—Mrs. A. Ludwig, Mrs. Wm. Jungles Sr., Mrs. A. Gray, Miss Marg. Hostert and Miss Mary Bremner. The sale was the Brown, Homering Auction Norman Wagner is delighted to be home again. He is recuperating from his operation and has no high opinion of even the best of hospitals.

Six tables accommodated the sewing Circle at their Wednesday buncle.

Prizes were won by Miss Margaret Hostert, Mrs. Hutchinson and Mary Bremner. The prizes were embroidered pillow cases, Turkish towels and a Flemish Ware Jug. A good luncheon was enjoyed especially the chicken sandwiches.

Little James Heatherwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Heatherwick is very ill with pneumonia.

Mr. John Hostert and his mother Mrs. Peter Hostert are expected home this week from Milwaukee where John under went a serious operation.

It was good to find Wm. Homering at church again Sunday even though the broken arm is still in a sling. Although William has many friends there was none generous enough to want to donate money for funeral flowers for him. A thirty foot fall and seven foot slide side shows quite some parachuting skill on the part of Mr. Homering.

Some of the boys of the parish had one grand time wolf hunting or rather track chasing, for, although they laboriously dragged, boosted and pushed two heavy feet up and down, through the deep snow, from the Sag to Orland, their only reward was a few grey hair, several glimpses of a wolfish bed and—yes—a most excellent appetite for supper.

Mrs. Harold Kinney and children Millicent, Harold and Lester are having a glorious time at Miami, Florida. The children are attending school there and keenly reveling in a daily swim in the surf.

ORLAND M. E. NOTES

Elmer L. Setterlund, Pastor Friday January 28 the moving picture is "The Man Who Played God." Also a comedy, Friday, Feb. 4, the well known "Rainbow Riley". Sunday, January 30th. The Bible school at 9:30 a. m. Despite the cold weather and much sickness our attendance is better than at its best two years ago. Still there is room for an increased attendance. Do you take advantage of the Sunday school?

Morning worship at 10:30 a. m. The pastor is giving a brief exposition of the Gospel of John. Next Sunday it is the fourth chapter. The national motto of the Federal Council of Churches in America is for universal Bible reading "A Chapter a Day Keeps the Tempter Away". What are you doing?

Special evening service at 7:30 This will be an Intercommunity Communion service. Rev. Paul Sanders the popular Worth pastor will occupy the pulpit. The choirs of both the Worth and Orland churches will sing special numbers. All people in these communities are cordially invited. Do not miss this opportunity.

Last Sunday morning the pastor welcomed into the fellowship of the church Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Richards, who recently came to Orland from Campus, Illinois. Mr. Richards has been "third trick man" at the local Wabash depot but is now transferring to a position with the Wabash railroad at Sibley, Illinois. It is with regret that we see this splendid family leave our community, but we trust that they will find a happy place for them in their new work.

Mrs. David Agate was operated on at the Silver Cross hospital at Joliet the other day but is reported as feeling as well as can be expected at this meeting.

A set of colored photographic pictures of the Passion Play of Oberammergau of 1922 were shown at the Orland M. E. church last Sunday evening. The story of this remarkable play was told by the pastor.

The public is urged to be on the lookout for other opportunities on Sunday evenings to see pictures and hear talks of universal interest. For instance, on Sunday evening, Feb. 13th there will be a set of pictures and a talk on "The Life of Abraham Lincoln", in the keeping with the birthdays of two noted Americans in February.

On Sunday evening, March 13th a set of remarkable pictures on Martin Luther and the Protestant Reformation will be shown at the church. Sunday evening, March 6th there will be the "Surprise Service" which was postponed from Sunday evening, January 16th.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Steinhagen moved to Tinley Park the past week where Mr. Steinhagen is engaged in the garage business.

Toad's Great Value
Some form of toad can be found in each state. Toads were formerly more numerous. They are now becoming rare, for they are destroyed by all classes of vertebrates and by drought in summer and severe cold in winter. Their value to man lies in the number of insects and other invertebrates which they eat.

WHY GOVERNMENT PRICE FIXING WON'T WORK

One of the most persistent fallacies is government price-fixing on competitive commodities. There is already government price-fixing in commodities and services where competition plays no part in price determination. These are railway transportation, electricity, gas, telephone and telegraph, and so on. Here government price-fixing is solely to protect the consumer. There are two fatal objections to government price-fixing for agricultural products, which represent the most competitive business in the world. These are, first, that it will not work; second, that it is always done for the consumer as against the producer.

Government price-fixing for agricultural products would work if at the same time the government regulated wages, profits, middlemen's margins, the production of all commodities and the rationing of all consumers. In short, if the population were enlisted in one vast army, directed and rationed, price-fixing would work, but otherwise not. If the price is fixed on the wheat the farmer sells, then he cannot keep on producing wheat if wages or the cost of harvesting machinery rise, or if the cost of other material he buys rises. So the next step would be the fixation of other prices, and yet other prices.

The United States government fixed the price of wheat but once in our history, and then it was to benefit consumers, not producers. The government might, in an emergency, fix some agricultural prices for the purpose of elevating such prices. Such action would inevitably and speedily lead to outcry from city consumers and a consequent reversal of policy. Indeed, the consumers, not the producers, are most likely to demand and secure food price regulation by government authorities. The farmer, therefore, who favors any form of governmental price-fixing is working against his own interests. He is putting his head into a noose.—James E. Boyle, Professor of Rural Economics, Cornell University, in the Banker-Farmer.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

On Fifteen Per Cent Bonds

Mrs. Norris beamed as she greeted Aunt Emmy and exclaimed, "Now I know all my financial worries are over! I wanted to tell you right away—"

"What have you bought this time?" Aunt Emmy demanded suspiciously.

"Well, I haven't paid the money over yet, but I have found the loveliest investment where my money will be perfectly safe and will earn a nice income for me right away," Mrs. Norris said. "I'm going to buy bonds, good safe bonds, that will pay me fifteen per cent interest—"

"Wait a minute, you'll have to go some, Maud Norris, to tell me about 'good safe bonds' that pay fifteen per cent!" Aunt Emmy broke in.

"They are safe,—the man said so and this booklet says so too!"

"Do you know what a bond is?" asked Aunt Emmy.

"No, but it's awfully safe. I'm sure of that," Mrs. Norris said. "Everybody knows that bonds are safe—"

"My dear, some bonds are safe and some are not. When you buy a bond you simply lend your money to the company putting out the bonds. Bond issues are secured generally by the company mortgaging or pledging some of its property. In other words, it offers a certain asset as security that it will return your money to you on the date the bond matures. It agrees to pay you a certain sum each year for the use of your money, usually something between five and eight per cent. No company can afford to pay too much for its money—and as to fifteen per cent bonds—why? it would be very unusual for a company to be able to earn enough to enable it to pay fifteen per cent for the privilege of using other people's money,—moreover, if it is good enough to borrow money at all it can borrow it more cheaply than that!"

"Oh dear!" wailed Mrs. Norris, "then a bond isn't a good safe investment—"

"Don't jump at conclusions so fast!" said Aunt Emmy. "I did not say that. A bond is as safe as a church if the company that issues it is financially sound, has a high credit rating and is making money. Before you buy bonds assure yourself that the company behind them is above reproach."

"But the man who told me about these fifteen per cent bonds was so earnest—I felt sure I could believe him."

"Don't turn over any money to him until you have some advice on the bonds from your bank," admonished Aunt Emmy. "Then, if you find out that the bonds are questionable you will escape another bad investment."

Mason County, Michigan, bankers are pushing hard to replace scrub stock with pure-bred cattle. The plan as outlined by the county agent is to purchase young pure-bred sires and place them wherever a farmer is found who is willing to co-operate in the proposition. The bankers will advance the purchase price and take a note for one year without interest. The idea is to make it as easy as possible for the farmers to procure thoroughbreds.

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Harry Ormerod, long proscribed traitor to King George as a Stuart partisan, returning from France to London, rescues Alderman Robert Juggins from a band of assassins. Juggins proves to be the grandson of a former steward of Ormerod's father, to whom Juggins feels himself indebted. Ormerod tells Juggins he has abandoned the Stuart cause, Juggins informs Ormerod of a Jacobite plot in the American colonies to weaken England by forwarding French interests. At its head is Andrew Murray, a Scotsman, and a Frenchman, De Veulle, deadly enemy of Ormerod. The two are in London furthering their schemes. Anticipating the plotters' early return to America, Juggins arranges for Ormerod to go there with letters to Governor Burnet, friend of Juggins, and work to foil Murray. Disguised as Juggins' servant, Ormerod arranges to take passage to America. On the ship he meets a girl, Murray's daughter, ardent Jacobite, who believes him to be loyal to the Stuarts. De Veulle recognizes Ormerod and exposes him. Taken by surprise, Ormerod is thrown overboard by the negro, Tom, but regains the deck safely.

I looked around me, noting that the watch were all ensconced upon the fore-castle or the poop. Then I remembered that ranged around the bottoms of the masts were long handbars of wood, iron-tipped, which were used in making fast the sail-ropes. I ran across to the mainmast and tore one from its slot.

Nobody had yet seen me in the pitch darkness, and I stole across the deck to the door which gave entrance to the poop, my water-soaked shoes quite soundless. The door was ajar, and I opened it very carefully, listening to the murmur of voices in the main cabin. Murray and De Veulle were sitting on the bench which ran across the stern, the table in front of them littered with cards. So much I saw when the entrance into the main cabin was darkened by the body of the negro, Tom.

He saw me descending the stairs, and apparently took me to be one of the officers coming off watch. At any rate, he stepped back into the cabin and stood there, waiting to give me room. The passage was not more than fifteen or sixteen feet long, and as I approached him I smelled again that rancid, musky odor—the body smell, as I afterward discovered, of the savage, black or red—which had overwhelmed my nostrils just before I was pitched over the side.

'Twas that decided me. I took a firm grip on my improvised club and, stepping into the pool of light in the main cabin, swung square around, face to face with Tom. He threw up both hands and staggered back with a wild scream of terror, eyes popping from his ashen-gray face.

I gave him no time for recovery, but brought down the iron-tipped end of the handbar with all my force against his skull. The blow would have killed any save a black man. I meant to kill him. As it was, he dropped like a slaughtered ox, and lay in a crumpled heap of tawdry finery on the floor.

Doors banged in the passage, and I stepped to one side, setting my back to the bulkhead, the while I fastened my eyes upon the startled amazement with which Murray and De Veulle regarded me. 'Twas Murray recovered first.

"Zooks," he remarked, taking snuff with his usual precision. "It seems that Tom is growing in the way of making mistakes."

"Aye, and such mistakes are like to react upon others," I replied fiercely. "If I were a refugee from justice, I should be careful how I threatened law-abiding subjects," he answered calmly. "Well, well, it seems we have more company."

I followed his glance to the passage, where stood the girl, whilst over her shoulder peered the square, puzzled features of my silent cabin mate, Master Ringham.

"What hath happened?" he asked. "Is the negro dead?"

"I think so," I said. "He—"

"Not he," corrected Murray cheerfully. "You know not Tom, good Master Ormerod. He hath a skull on him can be only opened with blasting-powder."

"It matters little," I returned. "The rascal attacked me above, Master Ringham. I pursued him down here. There is naught more to be said. I will settle with his master."

The second mate looked questioningly toward Murray. I hated to compromise so, but I had not missed the veiled threat he had addressed to me nor his use of the name Ormerod. Remember, I was still known to the crew as Juggins.

I was uncertain what attitude the captain might take if he was told that I was a political refugee. There might be a reward at stake—and sailors were human like other men.

"Why, that is fairly spoken," rejoined Murray, somewhat to my surprise. "I know naught of the circumstances, Master Ringham, but perhaps I may settle with our friend here. As for the negro, I will attend to him."

"There must be no more violence," warned Ringham, his eyes on me, his words addressed to all of us.

"Violence," rejoined Murray jovially. "Let us reject the idea altogether. Why should we disdain sweet reason's rule? Eh? Master Orm—er—Juggins?"

I bowed ironically. Ringham nodded and clumped back to his bunk. But the girl stood her ground, her eyes accusing all of us.

"Well, Marjory," said Murray pleasantly, "and do you plan to join in our debate?"

That was the first time I heard her name, and—why, I cannot say—I heard it without surprise, as if I had always known it to be hers. It suited her, as names sometimes express the character and appearance of their possessors.

"What hath happened?" she asked in the same words the second mate had used.

"You have heard," said Murray. She shook her head.

"That is not all. This—" she hesitated—"gentleman's clothes are wet. Tom does not attack people without orders."

Murray shrugged his shoulders. De Veulle answered her, leaning across the table, his eyes burning with hatred for me.

"You know what this man hath done, mademoiselle," he cried. "You know his record in the past. You know that he comes with us to spy out our plans, to thwart, it may be, what we undertake to do. Is any fate too hard for him? Why should you concern yourself?"

"Then there has been fighting?" she asked.

I could stand it no longer. "Fighting?" I snapped. "And, if you call assassination fighting. An attack in the dark upon an unarmed man, throwing him overboard to drown as you might a blind puppy, never a chance for his life!"

"Yet you are here, sir?" she said quietly.

"'Tis only by the intervention of Providence that I was saved—or the untidiness of our captain, who left a rope trailing over the side. God hath protected me against your father's."

"My father?" she repeated questioningly.

"Well, what is he?" I returned cuttingly. "Mayhap you have some pet name for a parent who practices assassination. Did not you yourself say Tom never acted without orders?"

"But—"

"And, furthermore, if this case is not enough, let me tell you that this man here—" I pointed to Murray; "for some reason I disliked to call him her father, even in wrath—"set a gang of ruffians to murder a friend of mine in London."

Murray rose from his seat behind the table.

"Your proof, sir?" he asked coldly.

"Proof?" I answered weakly. "Why, I was there!"

"Aye, sir," he rejoined with dignity. "But your proof that I hired assassins? Could you prove before the captain or any court of law?"

I saw the twinkle in his eyes and knew that he was playing with me.

"No," I said shortly; "I could not prove it. I have no witnesses."

"And you could not even go into a court of law," he pursued, "for you are an outlaw, denied benefit of law or clergy."

"Yes," I flared in answer; "and you, sir, what think you might be your fate in New York if I denounce you to Governor Burnet for attempted murder? Would he make use of the opportunity—or no?"

The realization of this trump card I held had come to me in a flash of inspiration. Now it lay face up for all to see, and there could be no doubt it gave my enemies cause for uneasiness.

"I do not think I am so weakly situated as you had supposed," I mocked him. "Aye, you may denounce me to the captain for a Jacobite conspirator, and it may be he will see fit to believe you. You are three to my one. But when we reach New York, and I am brought before the officers of the Crown, I may have a different story to tell. Think you the governor would be loath to implicate a French officer and the man who is leading the fight against his struggle to control the fur trade?"

Murray nodded his head slowly, and sank back in his seat.

"Sure, you are a lad after my own heart," he said. "That was well thought of. 'Tis checkmate—for this present. We must have a truce."

But he reckoned without Marjory. She stood forward in the center of the cabin, passionate indignation shaking her whole figure.

"Oh, why do you talk like this?" she exclaimed. "Are we criminals that we must bargain with a criminal?"

I had not made any headway in regaining her good opinion, 'twas evident, and that must be the excuse for my barbed retort.

"You show unwanted sensibility, my lady," I said. "Sure, no men with good consciences would stoop to bargain with such as I."

"I fear me, Marjory," said Murray gently, "that you have no appreciation of the tangled path which must be trod by those who concern themselves with affairs of state. The good and the bad are strangely intermingled. Sometimes we must consort with those we despise in order to gain a good cause. 'Tis not we who count, who are but pawns; but the cause we serve."

He turned to me.

"It seems, then, Master Ormerod, that we must proclaim a truce for the time being. But the truce holds good only for the period of our voyage together?"

"That is understood," I agreed. His eyes hardened.

"Did you ever hear of the Red Death and the Black Death, Master Ormerod?"

"I shook my head, puzzled.

"You have met the Black Death. You have yet to meet the Red Death. And you may meet the Black Death again," he added as Tom groaned where he lay on the floor.

Marjory shuddered.

"Enough of this!" she exclaimed. "Is it understood there is to be no killing on this ship?"

"It is, my dear," Murray responded. "And now I think you had best withdraw. This has been a trying interview for you, I fear."

She looked from one to the other of us, as if half in doubt; and then gathered her cloak around her. We all three, as with one accord, bowed low as she stepped into the passage.

One day followed another and one week ran into the next as the New Venture made her southing and bore toward the new world. We who shared the tiny quarters under the poop contrived to live together without further quarrels. The girl—I called her Marjory in my thoughts—ignored my existence. She spent much of her time with De Veulle, walking the deck with him, reading or playing at cards. I liked to think she did it to provoke me.

With Murray my relations were outwardly friendly. He liked much to talk, and indeed he demonstrated a considerable acquaintance with the great men of his period. But he never dropped a hint concerning the enterprise in which he was now engaged. Nor for that matter did he refer to the enmity between us or the bargain we had made until the day we sailed through the Narrows, the entrance to New York's inner harbor.

"We part for a time, Master Ormerod," he said, coming upon me where I leaned on the railing in the waist of the ship. "Our truce expires when we disembark."

Of the part played by Chance in arranging meetings that alter the course of lives, Ormerod is to be convinced, as the next installment of this narrative proves.

Clock Could Do Most Everything but Talk

A clock that showed the motions of the sun, marked the years and some historical events was completed by Felix Meyer of New York in 1880 after 10 years' work and experimenting. It showed local time, the hours, minutes, seconds, the days of the weeks and months, the seasons, the signs of the zodiac, the revolution of the earth around the sun and on its own axis, the movements of the planets around the sun and the phases of the moon. It showed the difference in time at Washington, San Francisco, Chicago, Cairo, Melbourne, Constantinople, Peking, London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and St. Petersburg (Leningrad). A child struck the quarter hour, a youth the half hour, an old man the three-quarters and death the hour; while Washington rose from his seat and, extending his right hand, presented the Declaration of Independence, a servant entered the door and all the Presidents of the United States entered and saluted Washington and passed out through another door.

Sport With Dragon Flies

One of the most popular amusements among Japanese boys is the sport of catching dragon flies on long poles smeared with lime. When the insects are captured, they are tied with fine string and flown from the sticks. The dragon fly is known to almost every part of the world except the polar regions, more than twenty-one hundred species being classified. A peculiarity of some kinds is that they choose a favorite twig on which to roost and always return to it even after long excursions after food.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

ADDS CHARM TO VELVET HAT; GORGEOUS EVENING WRAPS

UNDER the magic touch of scissors, behold the erstwhile "simple little felt" take on the airs of a "dress-up" chapeau. Perhaps the fetching felt models in this picture will best tell the story of what is being accomplished through the cunning of scissor-art as employed by the milliner.

By cutting a felt hood in deep points and bringing it down over a felt foundation of blended coloring the result is a chic and charming hat as shown first in this group.

A featured trimming of the late-winter felt hat is metal brocade. For the attractive chapeau shown in the upper right corner of this "nifty" felt collection a much "scissored" crown is posed over a colorful metal brocade brim and side crown with charming effect.

The promise is for many unique combinations of not only straw and felt, but straw and fabric as well.

While the style calendar is "rushing" the coming of spring, society's midseason festivities are keeping on with unabated enthusiasm. Which means that women of fashion are still centering their thoughts on pretty clothes tuned to late winter dance, dinner and theater parties.

In this era of the limousine and the taxi the handsome evening wrap finds a very proper setting. For formal wear, midlady is expressing preference for gorgeous velvet coats or capes such as are pictured herewith.

From the atelier of Jean Magnin comes the charming theater coat of ruby velvet shown to the left. It is cut along surplice lines with long deep sleeves emblazoned with silver braid. A long scarf is attached to the right the artistic cut-out work which distinguishes the hat with the ripple brim in this picture glorifies felt in a most enchanting way.

Then there is that handsome basket-woven hat posed to the right in the illustration. To accomplish this the felt shape is slashed diagonally around the entire side crown. Strips of felt in contrasting color are then interwoven as you see. Metal ribbon or velvet thus interwoven would be equally as effective.

Not even the humble felt hat has escaped the influence of the vogue shoulder and ends in a festoon of brilliants.

The cape, as an evening wrap, has become an item of genuine importance. Silver-gray velvet embroidered in shaded tones of gray and blue was selected for the developing of the lovely cape in the picture, which, by the way, is a French creation. Sable in conjunction with beautiful shaded gray willow ostrich trims this lovely costume.

for beaded embellishment. Very cleverly is a wide grosgrain ribbon "starred" with cut steel nailheads in the model shown last in the group. The idea is unique and charming as well.

It is interesting to note that metallic handings, almost always woven ribbons, enhance the felt hats which are being accorded a conspicuous place in winter resort millinery. Novelty creasings and handsome colorings add newness to incoming felt models.

A touch of straw braid characterizes latest felt hats for midseason wear. The very narrow straw beading is patterned very interestingly on the felt background. This gives opportunity for charming color effects.

Quilted matelasse, whose floral pattern is traced with gold-thread stitching, is a newly arrived coating designed for the spring and summer formal wrap, but whose debut is taking place among fashions for Southern resort wear.

It is said also that the taffeta wrap elaborately garnished in platings, pinked edges and shirring will take its place among the near-future fashions.

TINLEY PARK

TINLEY PARK M. E. CHURCH

A vitally important meeting of the official board is called for next Sunday morning immediately after the preaching and worship service. It is hoped that a full attendance can be had.

The pastor will preach on the general subject "Building together with God". The setting will be the building of king Solomon's temple.

Those who have made a pilgrimage to the east will find this especially interesting.

Little Valorie Rice celebrated her 6 birthday Monday. There was cake with 6 candles. A house full of little folks who played bunco with prizes. Yes they had refreshments too.

Mrs. Julia Andres returned to her home Saturday. Her friends rejoice at her return and look forward to the time when she will again take her place among them.

Tuesday evening, Jan. 25th the German Epworth League had a sleighing party. After the ride they drove to the home of Mrs. Henry Bandau where refreshments were served.

The Royal Neighbors held a public installation Tuesday evening. Mrs. Clara Mafing was installed as Oracle. This is her second term of service for the organization. Service that means something; that stands for efficiency and faithfulness, for may it be known that it would be hard to find a better corps of officers than right here in this camp. The floor work is well done and the business of the lodge conducted in an orderly and parliamentary manner and this due to Mrs. Mafing's ability as a leader. Mrs. John Klepper makes a splendid secretary. Her minutes are not only interesting but exact. It is a joy to listen to them. The manager Mrs. Hardinger in her most efficient methods maintaining perfect balances. There are others too but of these you will hear next week.

At the bunco party at the Gift Shop on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Jane Keuch won first prize.

An old school mate of Mr. Geo. Schreiber sent him a box of oranges and lemons from his ranch in Florida.

Mrs. Anna Lutz and sister, Mrs. L. Bickler from Chicago visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Glogwartz for a week.

Mrs. Wyman is on the sick list. Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Steinhagen entertained Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brandau, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Arnold, Mr. Christ Schilling and Mrs. Elizabeth Kay of Chicago Sunday.

The Wabash crossing at Worth was the scene of another smash the other day when a Grennan Cake Company Truck was hit by the St. Louis flier. The driver escaped injury, but the truck was reduced to a pile of junk.

NEW LENOX

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haynes of Joliet, are the proud parents of a son born in Silver Cross hospital Tuesday Jan. 25. Mrs. Haynes will be remembered as Miss DeDe Deadmore of New Lenox.

Henry Miller is convalescing from a recent operation at the Silver Cross hospital.

A son was born Monday in Silver Cross hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Knupp. Mrs. Knupp was formerly Miss Velma Werner.

Honor Washington's Alone

James Monroe received all but one of the electoral votes in 1820. An elector from New Hampshire voted for John Quincy Adams in order that no President other than George Washington should have the honor of receiving a unanimous vote.

OAK LAWN

Miss McClaughry visited our school last week and brought the photographs of Wilbert Harnew and Frank Triezenberg with their chickens and sheep. She also informed us that Frank's sheep picture had been enlarged and hung in Mr. Tobin's office in the County Building.

Mr. and Mrs. Simmons spent Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Triezenberg owing to the fact that they were snow bound. They did not get their car home until late Saturday afternoon after the snow plow went through.

Mr. Simmons took the sixth grade class through the Field Museum on Saturday afternoon. They also paid a visit at the Art Institute and saw some of the radio broadcasting at the Lyon & Healy Concert Hall.

The eighth grade will soon visit the G. A. R. Memorial Hall in the Chicago Public Library.

Annie Steenwyk is now attending the Oak Lawn school. Dist. 123 since the Steenwyk home was destroyed by fire.

We are glad to hear that Grandma Harnew has returned from the hospital and is greatly improved in health.

LICKSKILLETT NEWS

When the roads get better there will be many more automobiles pass through our midst.

The other day Jim Bledsoe got drunk on dandelion wine that his wife bottled last year. Constable Si Plum says that the woman is liable to arrest for running a blind tiger.

Two tramps passed through our city yesterday looking for work but didn't stop.

Tom Hacker is corresponding with a girl in Chicago and says as soon as the Wabash runs a 50c excursion he is going to see her.

Miss Ada Bernath of the Federal Reserve Bank spent the week end with Mrs. Grace Prindiville at the home of Judge and Mrs. F. J. O'Brien.

It has been rumored that Judge O'Brien was going to close down the Oak Lawn school on account of the measles but this is not true and the judge says he cannot do this.

MOKENA

A group of friends and neighbors surprised Mrs. G. M. Kraus at her home Tuesday evening in honor of her birthday. Bunco was played and prizes awarded. Refreshments were served and all wished the hostess many more happy birthdays.

The following ladies were present: Mrs. B. Groth, Mrs. W. C. Schmitt, Mrs. Mary Barenz, Mrs. Mary Marti, Mrs. H. Schweser, Mrs. A. Pfleger, Mrs. I. Warning, Mrs. E. Schoeneck, Mrs. W. N. Lathrop, Mrs. Adam Barenz and Mrs. R. Hensel.

Mrs. Emil Cappel who recently underwent an operation at Silver Cross hospital at Joliet has returned home and is doing nicely.

J. W. Schilling who underwent an operation at the Wesley hospital in Chicago recently is improving.

The Willing Workers Class of the M. E. Sunday school will meet with June Nielsen Saturday afternoon of this week.

Henry Yunker who recently held a horse sale here has returned to Montana.

John Cappel who was called here by the serious illness of his mother has returned to Mattoon. Mrs. Cappel is much improved.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

Glen T. Beaty, Pastor.

Sunday School 10:30 a. m.

Evening Preaching Service 7:00 p. m. The pastor will preach the third of the series on The Lord's Prayer. "Give us This Day, Our Daily Bread". We welcome all people of all denominations and of all faiths to our services.

ST. JOHN'S EVAN. CHURCH

Sunday school 9:30. Classes for all ages. Come and join us. Good teachers. Good singing. Bible knowledge contest is in full swing. Join now to know more about the Bible.

Prizes for the best answers given. English service 10:30. Installation of the new officers of the Brotherhood. A rousing sermon will be preached by the pastor. Pay your pledge is the theme for Sunday morning. Hear this sermon. Special singing and music. Join the crowd and help to make the church bigger and better.

No evening service. The services will commence as soon as the weather opens to make the services worth while.

Brotherhood meeting on Monday evening Jan. 31st at 7:45. The last inning of the horseshoe contest will be played. All Red Sox are urged to be present. Do your stuff and don't grunt. Preparations for the Brotherhood Banquet will be also made. All ladies of the church are invited to watch the outcome of the game. Lunch will be served. All Aboard! Let's go and see what can be done Monday night. Be present!

A number of friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Alvord Wednesday evening to celebrate her birthday.

Last Tuesday evening a few girls of Mokena met at the home of Miss Elizabeth Lynk and organized a club. They chose the name for their club, but as it was decided to keep it a secret, the initials are only known, the K. K. K. This has no relation whatsoever with the Klu Klux Klan or does it tend to interfere with any other organization.

Don't forget to see Enoch Arden at the Mokena M. E. church tonight. A rare treat.

Toper's Glass

The British museum has acquired a new treasure—a yard of ale. It is an ale glass a yard high, narrow at the base, but larger at the top. Fifty years ago it belonged to a young man who put on exhibitions showing how to drink all the ale in the glass without stopping.
